

Frequently Asked Questions

Question	Answer
Is the in-person training only 6 days?	Yes, the Mind Moves Institute offers Mind Moves Development & Learning Specialist in-person training, which spans only 6 days for individuals who have already successfully completed all the workshops and courses, as well as generated the required number of reports as indicated on the LEARNING TRACK.
Will in-person training only be available during the dates shown on the website calendar?	For individuals who have successfully completed all the workshops and courses by the indicated deadline, the Mind Moves Development & Learning Specialist in-person training will take place during the period shown on the website calendar.
When the Learning Track specifies completing the program with 5 children, does it means you need to provide evidence that you have successfully implemented the Reading Readiness program with 5 children in order to apply for the Mind Moves license?	Yes, that's correct. If the Learning Track for Reading Readiness specifies completing the program with 5 children, then to apply for the Mind Moves license, you would need to provide evidence that you completed the Reading Readiness program with 5 children. Documentation verifying your completion of the program with the specified number of children could involve photos/ short videos/ feedback from the parents or the children.
Is the training fees payable upon completion of each course, or is it paid as a single payment?"	Training fees are payable as you progress. Payment for the Mind Moves Development & Learning Specialist in-person training is due two weeks prior to the first training day, as indicated on the website calendar.
It appears that continuous professional development will be necessary to maintain your Mind Moves Development & Learning Specialist license. What are the expectations regarding this, including costs, time commitments, and whether it will be conducted in-person or online?	To maintain your Mind Moves Development & Learning Specialist license, you'll need to actively participate and communicate promptly with the Mind Moves Institute. This includes adhering to the code of ethics and protocols, obtaining a minimum of 100 credits reflecting service to a client, a child (1:1) and an adult (workshop), staying updated with scheduled online case study discussions and attending the Mind Moves Institute conference every two years.

Question	Answer
Will attendance at the bi-annual conference be in person, or will there be an option for online participation? Additionally, are these conferences typically held in July or August?	The bi-annual conference will be a hybrid event, offering both in-person and online participation. And yes, these conferences are typically held over July/August.
Will any restrictions be placed on a Mind Moves Development & Learning Specialist ? In other words, will I still be able to practice as an occupational therapist, remedial teacher, educational psychologist, etc.?	Restrictions will pertain to professional conduct and protocols, not to other professions. You will be able to hold dual professions, provided there are clear distinctions between the two, and they are not offered during the same session.
What is a Mind Moves pocket practice ?	A Mind Moves pocket practice is an electronic 'secretary' that takes care of all your admin needs at the push of a button.
Will the Mind Moves pocket practice take care of client and workshop registrations, reports, interventions, progress reports, invoices and receipts?	Yes, the Mind Moves pocket practice will handle client and workshop registrations, reports, tailor made interventions, progress reports, invoices and receipts.
Will a Mind Moves Development & Learning Specialist need to pay the Neuro Dynamix of Writing and Reading license fee annually to continue to generate customised intervention plans? Or will this fee be included in the Mind Moves Development & Learning Specialist License fee?	Only a Mind Moves Development & Learning Specialist will have access to the Mind Moves pocket practice. This service does not include ongoing access to Neuro Dynamix of Writing and Reading as this course merely served as preparation to develop a deep-rooted understanding of systematic development. The in-depth insight and understanding gained during Mind Moves Development & Learning Specialist in-person training will equip you to differentiate and tailor-make interventions for each client with great confidence.
I am teaching full-time and implementing the Mind Moves way of thinking about learning, not just the Mind Moves movements, in everything I do. Shouldn't this commitment count towards my training as a Mind Moves Development & Learning Specialist ?	Absolutely, your commitment to integrating the Mind Moves approach into your teaching methods and mindset is highly valuable. Embracing the Mind Moves philosophy in your teaching practices, even if you're not solely focusing on the physical movements, significantly contributes to fostering a supportive learning environment and promoting holistic development among your learners. Your dedication to incorporating the Mind Moves way of thinking about learning certainly supports your application to become a Mind Moves Development & Learning Specialist .

Question	Answer
I am teaching full-time . Will I be able to continue teaching full-time while also being a Mind Moves Development & Learning Specialist ?	It would depend on your workload and circumstances, but yes, it is possible. Simply plan ahead. With 100 credits divided by 12 months, that's approximately 8 credits per month, you can achieve this.
Would I be required to assess reflexes, determine dominance patterns of learning, assess school readiness, develop skills, offer workshops to teachers and parents, as well as offer study skills to older learners, or will I be free to specialise in one or more of these areas?	Your training as a Mind Moves Development & Learning Specialist includes a wide range of ages and phases to develop a deep-rooted understanding of the complexity of learning and behaviour difficulties. Once qualified, you are free to specialise.
Can I earn income from the programs that I have completed on the Learning Track while I train as a Mind Moves Development & Learning Specialist ?	Yes, you can start earning income from the programs you have completed on the Learning Track while you train as a Mind Moves Development & Learning Specialist . This allows you to utilise your existing skills and knowledge to generate income while you continue your training journey. It is a requirement that you gain experience in each program completed before your application will be successful.
Do we buy the credits as we use them, or is that due upfront?	Credits are paid as you use them. Practically, this means when a client pays upfront to secure their booking with you, you use their fee to buy a credit(s).
Will the points/credits for the license period be calculated on a prorated basis from the date of licensing through to the end of February?	Yes
What if I do not reach 100 credits at the end of the license year?	It's essential to ensure that you fulfil the credit requirements within the specified time frame to maintain your license validity. If you do not meet the minimum criteria of 100 credits, you will be required to pay for the deficit in credits. For example, if you reached 75credits, your license renewal fee will be the standard license fee plus 25 x the deficit credit fee

Question	Answer
What if I reach beyond 100 credits at the end of the license year?	If you exceed 100 credits at the end of the license year, it demonstrates your dedication to the development and learning of others. While the minimum requirement is 100 credits, accumulating more credits can enhance your expertise and credibility as a Mind Moves Development & Learning Specialist . Additionally, exceeding the minimum requirement may provide you with more opportunities and recognition within your field.
I am not comfortable presenting in front of a group . What now?	If you're not comfortable presenting in front of a group, there are still various ways you can accumulate credits and contribute to your Mind Moves Development & Learning Specialist license. You could explore alternative methods such as one-on-one consultations and conducting online workshops. Additionally, you might utilise Mind Moves to overcome the hesitation to present in front of a group. Our experience has shown that passion overcomes obstacles, and once your Mind Moves knowledge base is solid, your passion and enthusiasm will overcome the rest. The brain can change and so can you, YOU CAN DO IT but you must want to.
For services that the Institute dictates the cost for, will clients be invoiced by myself or the Mind Moves Institute?	Clients will be invoiced by the Mind Moves Development & Learning Specialist . Should you wish to, you will always have the option to offer a service at a reduced rate.
Would my services as a Mind Moves Development & Learning Specialist be limited to a geographical area ?	As you will be licensed to work online, you will not be limited to a specific geographical area. Kindly note that Mind Moves Development & Learning Specialists residing in Southern Africa (South Africa and Namibia) invoice in Rand, while those residing outside of Southern Africa invoice in US dollars.
How many delegates are allowed per Mind Moves workshop ?	To ensure a quality learning experience in-person, a maximum of 30 delegates are allowed per Mind Moves workshop. Online, a maximum of 12 delegates are allowed per Mind Moves workshop.
Is there a restriction on how many Mind Moves workshops I can offer per day?	You can offer up to 4 workshops on a full day (8 hours), with at least a 30-minute break in between each workshop. However, it's important to note that a Mind Moves Development & Learning Specialist never schedules 8 workshops in 2 days. Quality and processing time are key to Mind Moves success!

Question	Answer
Is there only one intake per year to become a Mind Moves Development & Learning Specialist ?	No, there is not one intake per annum. You can start the Learning Track at any time of the year.
What is a Learning Track ?	The Learning Track is a series of milestone programs that you must complete successfully to qualify to apply as a Mind Moves Development & Learning Specialist. Mind Moves Learning Track
What is the earning potential for a Mind Moves Development & Learning Specialist ?	The earning potential is outlined in a disclosure document that you will receive once your application has been received. Kindly note that your application will only be considered if you have completed at least two (any two) programs in the Learning Track.
Where do I start ?	To answer your question, we'd like to quote Maria's famous line from "The Sound of Music": "Start at the very beginning, it's a very good place to start."
But, what if I have already done some of the workshops and courses on the Learning Tracking?	If you've already completed workshops on the Learning Track, your progress counts! Continue from where you left off when pursuing your Mind Moves Development & Learning Specialist certification. The Learning Track has been designed to offer you a systematic overview of development and learning, doing the first programmes sooner than later may enhance your overall learning experience and depth of knowledge as a Mind Moves Development & Learning Specialist .

Click on the link to Apply.

